Listen once to his music or see one of Eli Mosley's shows, you'll understand that he is a performer to watch. As Kyle Brown, Chairman of the Fun in the Sun Festival enthused, "The Festival was a smash success. Not only was your band's set entertaining, but you were among the most approachable and flexible performers I've worked with in my career. Thank you for your show-first mentality and the professionalism you demand from your crew. Everything about your outfit reeks "professional musicians". I whole-heartedly recommend your entire act."

Ever since he saw Tracy Byrd on stage at six years old, he knew he would be a country music artist. To prepare, he learned to play the guitar, graduated from Southeastern University with a degree in both music and business and spent 6 years in the US Marine Corps. He has released three Nashville recorded and produced albums at Ocean Way Studio, Studio West and Sound Emporium. Radio stations are playing his music throughout the nation. He has toured extensively since 2014. He performs with five other musicians in his band (electric guitar, bass guitar, drums, steel guitar and acoustic guitars). He has opened for Tracy Byrd, Tracy Lawrence, Joe Nichols, Tyler Farr, Jana Kramer, Parmalee, Jake Owen, Maren Morris and more. Eli performed for the third year at the prestigious BMI Island Hopper Songwriters Festival and is beginning to turn heads with his song writing abilities as established Nashville song writers collaborate with him. He's on the radar of major record labels and agents. His shows rock, are fun and bring something for everyone. If you don't know Eli now, you will in the near future!

Eli,

As a country music program director, I receive dozens of calls and field dozens of emails each week from hungry young artists who are eager and a bit too star struck for their own good. They enter "guns blazing", ready to take over the genre...but they often forget their work ethic. But, truth is, those of us who make a living in country music know that the genre is (and always has been) music for hard working people, by hard working people. Talent without hard work has become a staple in today's world.

You won't find that with you, or anyone in your band. Your proud history of hard work is evident. I know you worked hard in defence of our nation as a member of the United States Marine Corps. Over the past couple of years, I've had the honor of watching your hard work bear fruit on the country music scene as well.

The 2019 Fun in the Sun Festival in West Union, SC was a smash success, despite a weather-forced rescheduling. Not only was your band's set musically entertaining, but you were among the most approachable and flexible performers I've worked with in my career. Thank you for your show-first mentality and the professionalism you demand from your crew. There are plenty of "bands" out there. Everything about your outfit reeks "professional musicians". This event could not have succeeded without your help, your insentience on helping our social media marketing efforts, and ultimately your performance.

I whole-heartedly recommend your entire act to anyone in country music. They'd better catch you while they can!

Thank you,

Good Morning Mr. Wayne,

Wanted to take a moment say what a great experience it was working with your organization and the Eli Mosely Band. I had 3500 smiling faces watching and he rocked them all. Eli and the whole band are true professionals and a joy to work with. In thirty-five years of doing shows, in a word...refreshing!

Thanks Much.

To Whom It May Concern:

I wholeheartedly recommend Eli Mosley as a country music entertainer. Eli performed at this year's 2019 Grant Seafood Festival this last March. His combination of his own hits as well as covers to well-known country standards was a real crowd pleaser. Eli and his band are seasoned musicians who "bring it" in every way. I can count on Eli bringing a consistently professional performance and I am looking forward to continuing our relationship.

A bonus to his exciting, fun show is that Eli was heavily involved in the promotion of the event. He promoted the show through interviews in the local newspaper and on the local radio station. The radio station played his recent Nashville recordings weeks ahead of the show so that the audience was able to sing along with him during his show. If you're looking for an entertainer who will work hard to both promote and perform, I highly recommend Eli Mosley.

Sincerely,

Pat Bryan

Eli Mosley energizes Circle Theatre crowd

By JIM ERVIN
CORRESPONDENT

SEBRING — Bartow's Eli Mosley brought his high energy show to The Circle Theater Fri. night, May 4. Performing before a near capacity crowd, Mosley kept the audience engaged with his friendly onstage banter, humor and country charm.

The singer announced from the stage that he "wanted to meet everybody in here." During intermission of the two-hour show, Mosley spent the entire break talking to fans, taking pictures, shaking hands and signing autographs.

Aside from a brief moment of technical difficulty during the opening song, the show went off without a hitch. Immediately apparent was the level of professionalism and showmanship on the stage. The former Marine and crew looked relaxed and happy under the lights as Mosley moved smoothly back and forth across the stage. Clearly much time and thought had gone into giving the audience a quality show and a memorial evening out. An all the more impressive feat considering Mosley's excellent band consists of part time musicians with day jobs.

Those musicians are, Anna Lee, rhythm guitar and background vocals, Kheagun Fleckenstein on lead guitar, Derick Brightwell, bass guitar and perpetual motion, Daniel Benefield, drums and Justin Walden on fiddle.

The concert, at times, brought to mind a Garth Brooks style show. The Brooks standard "Friends In Low Places" was even performed with Mosley going out into the audience and up to the balcony, singing most of the song from the midst of the crowd.

Tracy Byrd, the artist Mosley credits as being "the reason I got into this," was represented by the performance of his song, "Watermelon Crawl." Another Mosley hero, George Strait, saw three songs covered. Those were, "Check Yes Or

No, "Round About Way," and "Amarillo By Morning."

The show was not comprised of covers only. One high point was Mosley's solo performance of his own, "With You." "Just Need To Know" was a Sebring preview of new Mosley music yet to be released. If the song itself is indicative of the upcoming third release, it will be one you'll not want to miss.

The band played most of the current album, "Come Along With Me," including standouts "Stay," the title song, and "American Men." The latter is a tribute to Mosley's Grandfather who served in WWII, and the military legacy he started within the family. Mosley's father, brother and himself have all served this country in military uniform.

Mosley and Lee treated the crowd to a rousing rendition of the Johnny Cash/June Carter classic, "Going To Jackson" that got hands clapping and heads bobbing.

Other songs of note were two covers by Brooks & Dunn, "Cowgirls Don't Cry" and "Boot Scootin' Boogie," and Merle Haggard's "Mama Tried.

The Polk County cowboy saved one of his best for one of his last. Mosley's current single, the outstanding "St. Augustine" would be one of those songs Mosley fans would come to hear. It is Mosley's most successful song to date and one of his best.

At the conclusion of the nights' performance, the audience showed their appreciation with a resounding standing ovation. The Mosley gang endeared themselves to the crowd this night. A return engagement would be appreciated by many.

Eli Mosley making next stop on the road to country music stardom

By DEBBIE FLESSNER-The Port Charlotte Sun Herald 10/24/18

LET'S GO CORRESPONDENT

Eli Mosley says that when young people looking to get into the music business ask him for his advice, the first thing he asks them is, "How much do you want to be a musician?" That's because the 27-year-old knows firsthand the level of hard work and dedication required to achieve one's dreams. His next stop on the road to country music stardom will lead him to a performance at the Cultural Center of Charlotte County, 2280 Aaron St., Port Charlotte, on Oct. 27.

Mosley grew up in the Lakeland area, graduating from Lakeland Christian High School in 2009. Afterwards, he enlisted in the United States Marine Corps Reserves, where he served for six years while attending college at Southeastern University, majoring in Music Business. While in school, Mosley was sent up to the Contemporary Music Center in Nashville for a semester-long program that prepares college-age musicians for careers in the music industry. "They throw you into the industry in whichever area you're interested in — mine was as an artist," he said. "We got our work critiqued and had to perform regularly. I recorded my first EP up there." As part of the course, Mosley's group of students embarked on a tour from Nashville up to Minnesota and back. That was his first experience with the 24/7 life of a musician, and would prepare him well for what was to come.

After Mosley returned from Nashville, he started working at a Lakeland radio station, but had also begun assembling musicians to start performing around the state. Between 2015 and 2016, he played 150 to 200 shows, and in the past few years has released two albums of his original work. He describes his style as modern country with a traditional approach. Not surprising, since the singer/songwriter lists his primary influences as Johnny Cash, George Strait and Brooks & Dunn.

In Mosley's upcoming show, he will be covering some traditional country artists' songs, but will also be performing his own original work. "In today's world, you need to have something new and fresh," he said. "My newest song is now being played on close to 40 radio stations in the Southeast and that number is growing." That song, "St. Augustine," is the first one that has been released from his as yet untitled upcoming album. He says he's looking forward to releasing the other songs during 2018 and unveiling the entire album by the end of the year.

As for what he has planned for the future, Mosley said that his objective remains the same as it has been since he first stepped onto this musical path. And he knows just what it will require to get there. "My goal is to make it up to that big stage," he said. "It takes a lot of work and it takes a lot of practice. You can never stop improving."

Letter of Recommendation for Eli Mosley

It is a pleasure to recommend Eli Mosley for entertainment for your property as he has performed here at 12 Spies Vineyards several times over the last year. Eli engages the audience with stories of his background in music as well as his personal life.

He has the ability to read the guests and make the adjustments to insure the audience is receiving the highest level of enjoyment and experience of the winery.

We have enjoyed getting to know Eli and have certainly found him to be an integral part of our entertainment. We have already booked several dates with Eli for 2019.

Regards,
